The Pharaohs

Pharaoh was the name given to the king or ruler of ancient Egypt. A man or a woman could be a Pharaoh. A person usually became the Pharaoh because they were born into a royal family. The Pharaoh had all the power and controlled the people of Egypt. He/She also had control over all the food Egypt produced and any minerals mined, such as gold.

The Pharaoh sent out people to trade with the neighbouring lands. The Egyptian craftsmen and artists made vases and pots, from clay, and woven baskets, from reeds. They also made glass beads and beautiful silver and gold jewelry. The Egyptians would trade these items for slaves, horses, cattle and cedar wood.

Women could also become Pharaohs. Cleopatra was the last Pharaoh of ancient Egypt. She ruled Egypt from 69BCE to 30BCE. She was said to have been very beautiful. After her troops were defeated in battle, she committed suicide by allowing a poisonous snake to bite her.

It was common for Egyptian people to use black kohl under their eyes as makeup. This is like eyeliner today. Pharaohs were worshipped as gods. After a Pharaoh died, his/her body was embalmed and mummified. The Pharaohs were buried with all their possessions because it was believed that they would need their things in the afterlife. They were even buried with food!!
